TO THE FUTURE

The index above gives a complete listing of what appeared in this volume. What should you anticipate in the next?

Each issue will contain an article on a topic that is discussed whenever educators gather: discipline. The five articles are an outgrowth of a workshop held on the campus of Concordia Teachers College, Seward.

Topics for the March/April issue will be developed by representatives of TEAM and will address themselves to the manifold issues in education faced by this vital, growing ministry.

Every teacher and administrator lives and works under the laws of our land. These laws are interpreted by the courts, however, and our understanding of the ways in which the laws apply to us must change with the times. Expect to find at least two articles on this important matter in the next volume.

In addition to the above, you may expect treatment of the following: The Black Centennial, Ethnicity in Our Textbooks, The Pros and Cons of Ability Grouping, The Bible as a Book for Children, How An Urban Church Faces Community Blight, The Impact of the Changeover to the Decimal System, Call Patterns in LC—MS, Vocations and Life Choices, and many more. We are enthusiastic about the prospect; we think the profession will be well served.
